tři sta tři a třicet stříbrných stříkaček stříkalo přez tři sta tři a třicet stříbrných střech крал Карл и кралица Клара крали кларинети от кралските кларию роге valjа, bolje Ture bure tura nego bula bure valjа кукушка кукушонку купила капюшон. надел кукушонок капюшон, как в капюшоне он смешон к klobúk na ručník црни јарац црном трну црн врх гризе — не гризи ми црни јарче, црном трну црн врх! nie uwierzy, že na wieży leży Jerzy на дворе pešci ščisti cesti če! provičišti řtyři svirti sviřť шей трест пуст през през през през вез šesti lůžky шла Саша по tristotridsam strie provič přepy dyrelél lo ces jety dsať bym v petro szynka be province province province na ne noбила nie pieprz, Pietr szynka be province province na neprovince na nep

Invitation to Guest Lecture

Prof. Dr. Wacław M. Osadnik (University of Alberta)

Translation Studies, Stereotypes of Gender and Tendencies in Polish with Regard to Gender Linguistics

Tuesday, 20 May 2014, 5.15 p.m.

Department of Slavonic Studies (Institut für Slawistik) Room 40406

Some translation theorists connect the process of translation to the biological and cultural gender of a translator. To an insignificant degree, cultural education influences differences between translations done by men and women. In Poland, traditional and historical reasons seem to have caused a great deal of resistance to feminist endeavours and to intellectual movement preventing the emergence of novel feminist translation strategies and theories. On the other hand, there is strong pressure to change the language stereotypes in contemporary Polish in order to give more room for morphological and lexical innovations.

Dr Wacław M. Osadnik is a Professor of Slavic languages and literatures in the Department of Modern Languages and Cultural Studies at the University of Alberta (Canada). His research interests and publications address the history of Polish language, literature and culture, history and theory of translation and Slavic linguistics. His recent publications are devoted to the polysystem theory of translation (Teoria wielosystemowa i rodzaje ekwiwalencji w przekładzie, Katowice 2010) and to Stanisław Lem (Lemology, with Peter Swirski, Liverpool forthcoming).